

Transparency Statement 2019-20

Our commitment

We're committed to being open and transparent about how we run our business. We're open about what we do, how we provide our services, our actions, spending and performance.

We provide all the information listed in this statement on our website and we update it regularly. We can provide this information in other languages and formats. And we'll review the information we provide each year taking account of any requests we've had for other information.

A bit of small print

VIVID isn't a "public authority" as defined by section 3 of the Freedom of Information Act 2000 so the requirements under the Act for public authorities to share information don't apply to us, this includes Environmental Information Regulations (EIR).

But we're still committed to helping our stakeholders understand our business, so we'll take account of the information we're regularly asked for when we review and update our website.

Information we share

Our services, plans and performance

- The services and standards we provide and how to access them
- Our annual review which details our ambitions and explains how we've performed against them
- Our development pipeline showing the new homes we're building, when they'll be completed, their locations, the amounts we're investing and the partners we're working with

Financial information

- Our annual financial statements
- Our board members salaries
- How we fund our house building plans

Governance information

- Strategies and policies that determine how we provide services and manage our business
- Our regulator's assessment of our governance and financial viability
- Biographical details of our board and committee members
- Decisions taken by the Board. Although we'll publish board decisions, we may omit any that are commercially sensitive.
- Research and innovation projects we're working on
