Waseem: So, the great thing about the VIVID graduate program, is that it's an eye-opening experience towards the housing sector overall, and the reason for that is you get to rotate around different departments throughout the business and you get a sense of how each department works towards the overall vision of more homes, bright futures.	Waseem is sitting in one of our VIVID offices, speaking to the interviewer who is off camera. Montage footage of people working in the office.
Ebony: So, I think there's multiple things in the graduate scheme that make it unique and special. The main one is being able to move around with different departments, being able to learn from different people and utilize their knowledge to develop a better understanding of the housing world and the culture of VIVID as a whole. My programme has taught me how to have ownership over my own work and take responsibility and I think that that can only be a good thing. Waseem: What I enjoy about my role at VIVID, is the opportunities that I've been provided to me personally and professionally, so I aim for this to be a kickstart for my professional career, and something on top of that is the working environment, everyone is collaborative, everyone is vibrant and the culture is just an amazing thing to be a part of. I would recommend this VIVID graduate program to anyone who's looking to work in a workplace that everyone is supportive, welcoming and helpful, and on top of that, if you're looking for a workplace that will support you with your personal development and your career development.
